Activities:

On May 13, 1890, a new battalion of two companies was organized in the Sixth Brigade and designated the Tenth Infantry Battalion with headquarters at Eureka, Humboldt County. Prior to that time from 1866 to 1879, the Sixth Brigade had no organized companies, the brigade consisting only of the Brigadier-General and his staff officers. On March 15, 1879, a military unit known as the Eureka Guard, was organized and attached to the brigade as an unattached company of the National Guard. On May 13, 1890, when the Tenth Infantry Battalion was organized, the Eureka Guard was designated Company A. A military company that had been organized in Arcata, Humboldt County on December 21, 1889, was designated as Company B. Major J. H. Chamberlain, staff officer of the Sixth Brigade, was placed in command of the battalion, and by his untiring efforts the Tenth Infantry became one of the most efficient organizations in the State.

The Tenth Infantry Battalion attended the encampments held at Santa Cruz from July 5 to 11, 1891, and again in 1892, from August 6 to 14. Fifty per cent of the members of the battalion attended, and by their strict attention to drills and formations were considered to be one of the finest organizations in camp.*

On January 26, 1892, the Tenth Infantry Battalion marched in the funeral procession of John Vance, Humboldt County's most prominent citizen and for many years the Mayor of Eureka. At 1:00 P.M., the Tenth Infantry Battalion with its staff officers, and band approached and formed lines in front of the Pioneer Hall. All the members wore crape on their arms as a sign of mourning. The remains were borne down to the waiting hearse and when the cortege moved the Tenth Infantry Band was in the lead, playing a funeral march. Behind them came the Tenth Infantry Battalion under the command of acting Major John L. Crichton.*

There is no record concerning the activities of this organization, other than the usual battalion drills, until 1895. On March twenty-sixth of that year, the State Legislature enacted a law that reduced the number of companies of the National Guard to a maximum of sixty-nine. Acting upon the recommendation of the Board of Location and Organization, General Order No. 10 was issued which mustered Company B, Tenth Infantry out of service, and the Tenth Infantry Battalion was automatically disbanded June 29, 1895. Company A remained an unattached company of the Sixth Brigade until the following month when General Order No. 11 was issued July twenty-third of that year, transferring the company to the First Infantry Regiment, Second Brigade. The unit retained its designation as Company A. The Tenth Infantry Battalion was in existence in the Sixth Brigade for a period of five years, and was considered to be one of the National Guard's most efficient organizations. The disbandment of the Tenth Infantry was for financial reasons, a desire on the part of the State Legislature to reduce expenses.
