May 19, 1906

Stations and Locations

Company B of San Jose went on duty without orders shortly after 6:00 A. M. April 18, 1906.* Orders were not obtainable as telegraph lines were out of commission for the time being. Captain Holtum called his men out soon after the Earthquake occurred. Camp was established at:

St. James Square, San Jose, near the heart of the city. The Guardsmen immediately began the work of rescuing people from the ruins of fallen buildings. Guards were stationed at street intersections. Lines were stretched to keep crowds of people out of the forbidden district. The Guardsmen, in conjunction with the local police patrols were established throughout the greater part of the town.
