40TH INFANTRY DIVISION

ARMY OF THE UNITED STATES

SAN LUIS OBISPO, CALIFORNIA

HEADQUARTERS FORTIETH DIVISION
OFFICE OF THE COMMANDING GENERAL

To the Officers and men of the 40th Division:

Again the 40th Division has entered Federal service, and moves forward on the mission of intensive preparation to take its stand, shoulder to shoulder, with our comrades in arms, for the defense of our nation, our ideals, and our chosen way of life and liberty.

This responsibility is a challenge to each and every officer and man of the Division which can only be met by sincere, willing and diligent effort and application to duty. The Division can be no better than the officers and men who comprise it; therefore, each individual contributes to the Division just what he makes of himself, his squad, and his company or battery.

By our concerted effort, we will attain the objective which has long inspired the loyal group of citizen-soldiers who, throughout the years of waning general interest in the military, steadfastly gave of their time and effort that the 40th Division might be ready to answer the challenge of the day which is now upon us.

I am proud of the officers and men of the 40th Division, and am confident that this Division will be one of the finest in the service.

HEADQUARTERS FORTIETH DIVISION
OFFICE OF THE COMMANDING GENERAL
CAMP SAN LUIS OBISPO, CALIFORNIA

To the Personnel of The
40th Infantry Division:

Inducted in March, doubled in strength during June and July, seasoned by participation in the 1941 Fourth Army Maneuvers, the Division now faces further intensive training and testing.

The entire operation of the Division during the Washington Maneuvers was characterized by soldierly execution. I have from many observers, military and civilian, extreme laudatory remarks on the efficiency and businesslike conduct of individuals of all ranks and grades during that maneuver, and when it was completed the Division was in excellent condition and anxious to carry on.

I find high morale in the Division, I have found nothing but the greatest eagerness and desire to excel.

The tasks which lie ahead of the Division will be arduous. I feel that no matter what they may be, the report will always be: "The Fortieth Infantry Division is On The Way!"

HISTORY OF THE 40TH DIVISION

GOVERNOR LELAND STANFORD AND STAFF

"Each generation gathers together the imperishable soldiers of the past, and increases them by new sons of light, alike radiant with immortality."

In recording the history of the 40th Division, United States Army, one must reckon back to the stirring "Days of '49"—"Gold Rush Days." Many of the present-day units of the 40th Division can trace their beginnings to independent bands of citizen-soldiers—"Militia Men," whose exploits and deeds of valor figure so prominently in the "Winning of the West."

In the "Days of '49," boundaries of states were very elastic, and little heed was given to border-lines. Early-day companies of the National Guard were organized principally in towns adjacent to the mining camps, and were far-reaching in authority.

The early-day National Guard organizations of California, Utah, and Nevada, were similarly constituted, and, as today, served in close harmony, with high purpose and mutual understanding. It is therefore more than mere coincidence that the 40th Division, since its organization, has included units of the National Guard of the states of California, Utah and Nevada.

In terms of miles, the distance from Sutter's Creek to San Luis Obispo, California, is perhaps but one day's march for modern, mechanized units of the 40th Division

—perhaps well within the three hundred mile limit. But the 40th Division has traveled many more miles in its scope of action and years of activation than is represented in mileage from its place of origin to the present Command Post.

In terms of vehicles, many have been the types since the days of the "Covered Wagons," or "Prairie Schooners," of the "Days of '49," to the soldier-termed "Jeep" or motor truck of 1941.

In terms of soldiers the types have run true to form within the ranks of the 40th Division throughout the years of its existence. The names of countless outstanding Americans are inscribed on the "Rolls of Honor" of the 40th Division.

Earlier-day Guardsmen of California, Nevada and Utah, served the "Community, State and Nation," not only in handling emergencies at home, but they followed The Flag across the Seven Seas, and saw service in many foreign lands.

The problems of the early days must have been difficult indeed. Hostile and disgruntled Indians were a source of trouble, and frequent uprisings had to be quelled. Outlaws and robbers, especially in the mountain areas were also frequently troublesome. Early-day labor troubles necessitated the "calling out" of the National Guard frequently.

Officers of the Second Battalion, California Heavy Artillery.

Service to stricken communities, notably during the San Francisco earthquake and fire of 1906, and the Long Beach earthquake of 1933, are but two instances in their long history when California National Guardsmen responded to the call of humanity at a time of great emergency.

National Guardsmen of California, Utah and Nevada, served during the Spanish-American War of 1898, the Philippine Insurrection of 1899, Mexican Border service of 1916, and during the World War, 1917 to 1918.

To compile a composite history of the various organizations of the 40th Division, wherein the glorious deeds and accomplishments of the personnel would be fittingly recorded, would be indeed a task of great magnitude. Elsewhere will appear Historical and Pictorial Reviews of the Regimental Organizations of the 40th Division.

From these strong-hearted, sturdy Guardsmen of yesterday—their deeds and accomplishments, the present-day 40th Division, United States Army, has inherited a splendid morale and esprit-de-corps.

The 40th Division, United States Army, came into being during World War days. The war-time history of the division has been handed down to posterity in the form of a priceless report of its "War-Time" Adjutant and Inspector.

"God be thanked for books; they are the voices of the distant and the dead, and make us heirs of the spiritual life of ages past."

The imperishable "BOOK" of the 40th Division, United States Army, is, therefore, the following official report:

THE 40TH ("SUNSHINE") DIVISION, A. E. F.

By Lieutenant Colonel Ray I. Follmer, U. S. A.

Adjutant and Inspector, 40th Division, A. E. F.

(For 41 years a member of the California National Guard)

The 40th ("SUNSHINE") Division was organized at Camp Kearney, near San Diego, California, September 16, 1917, and was composed of National Guard organizations of the states of ARIZONA, CALIFORNIA, COLORADO, NEVADA, NEW MEXICO and UTAH. The Division enjoyed a continuity of policy and tradition, due to the unbroken command of Major General Frederick S. Strong, United States Army.

Major General Frederick S. Strong organized the 40th Division, and was its beloved Commander during its World War days. An organization reflects its leader. General Strong was an accomplished soldier, an experienced administrator, a considerate and cultured gentleman of unblemished character and high ideals. He imparted his principles and spirit to his command. Especially and unceasingly was he solicitous for the physical and moral welfare of the men of his Division, in no way abating discipline, but constantly seeking to obtain for his men the best condition of life under the circumstances. The personnel of the 40th Division, old and new, will retain an abiding loyalty and affection for their "War-Time" Commanding General.

HISTORICAL SKETCH

There is a vast difference between 27,000 men and a Division. A Division is a living organism partaking a distinct individuality and a particular spirit. Napoleon, perhaps the greatest idealist in history, stated that "In war the MORAL is to the PHYSICAL, as three to one." Morally, a Division is a team developed to the highest state of technical efficiency, charged with the loftiest aspirations and the most intense patriotism, and bound with a confraternity of spirit which can only come from service of a great cause.

What was the composition of the "SUNSHINE" Division? It was the bone and sinew of the Great West, full of boldness, replete with a spirit of initiative and practicality. ARIZONA, CALIFORNIA, COLORADO, NEVADA, NEW MEXICO, and UTAH! Each of these states, in territory about two-thirds the size of France, is set aloft on the great Rocky Mountain Plateau that tops the American Continent, or borders the broad Pacific. These men of the 40th Division partook of the character of the country from which they came. They were of unsurpassed physique, hardy and enduring. They came from the ranches and the mines, from forests and the factory, from the vineyards and the marts of commerce. Every practical handicraft, every business, every learned profession was represented, and an analysis of its personnel would show the Division to contain all elements that go to make up our highly intricate, modern civilization. And it is well that it is so, because modern warfare is simply the application of all means and force of civilization, in conflict of nations between nations.

It is difficult, in retrospect, to visualize the eagerness and intensity which men brought to the problem of training after the outbreak of the World War. The 40th Division had a great advantage over many units in the fact that the National Guard organizations which formed its foundation, had attained a high degree of efficiency during the mobilization of the National Guard on the Mexican Border. Favored by the climate of Southern California, they did not lose training owing to inclement weather, an advantage enjoyed by no other Division in the Army.

The great Aviation Camps at North Island were available for range work with the Artillery Brigade, and the Liaison Training with the Infantry. None can overstate the degree of enthusiasm, the persistency of effort, the completeness of cooperation, that combined to build the high esprit which characterized the 40th Division. How much loyalty, how much earnest effort were poured out in unstinted measure to forge a weapon that should be worthy of the country and its section, only those can realize who shared in the labor, the training, and the responsibility.

The entire Division looked forward with confidence and anticipation to the supreme moment when the Division should enter the conflict, in vindication of the high cause to which it was summoned.

But, by the fortunes of war, the Division was called to a role of abnegation and self-sacrifice, more difficult than the trials of the hardest campaign. After the receipt of 9,000 recruits from Camp Lewis and Camp Funston, in October and November, 1917, the Division was at war strength, and its training as a Division got under way.

In January, 1918, the first considerable reduction in this war-time strength came by way of a requisition from the War Department for 1,200 men for the Engineers. Only trained men were supplied and transferred January 26th to Washington Barracks, and designated as the 20th Engineers, and the 534th Pontoon Train.

And then, in April, 1918, a requisition was received for 1,500 trained Infantrymen, which call was filled with men, who, for the most part, had seen service with the old National Guard units on the Mexican Border. These men were transferred to the 42nd ("RAINBOW") Division.

During May and June, the 40th Division, like nearly every other Division then in the United States, was called on to furnish all trained Infantrymen and Artillerymen it could possibly sacrifice, for immediate service—overseas. In response to this call, 5,000 Infantrymen and 1,500 Artillerymen, all of whom had been over eight months in training, were supplied. These men, of the June DRAFT, were among the best ever trained by the Division, and subsequently proved their mettle with the Divisions they joined, with a glorious record of service.

When the 40th Division arrived in France, August 24, 1918, the enemy had completed a great series of smashing drives which started on March 21, 1918, and ended with his last, fatal attack of July 15, 1918.

The Supreme Allied Command had instituted its counter-offensive between Soissons and Chateau-Thierry on July 18th, and was planning the chain of furious assaults which were to break Germany's threat, and end the war.

Other Divisions had been fortunate in arriving in France earlier, thus preceding the 40th Division to battle. In playing their high role, they had suffered great casualties, and there arose the problem of filling the depleted ranks. The cruel but essential solution was that our "SUNSHINE" Division (in the role of First Army Replacement Division), had to make a vicarious sacrifice, and was denied the long, anticipated reward of entering the battle line as a Division.

That Combat Divisions "On the Line" might carry on the fight, 11,000 of our Division had been stripped from us to help other Divisions write their pages of history. At first, the bitterness of our disappointment was supreme and unalloyed. But, we played the game, and did with loyalty what we were ordered to do. We were disappointed . . . we always will be. Nothing can take away the keen disappointment of the individual officer and soldier whom fate denied the privilege of striking a direct blow; but will not the true analysis show that the "SUNSHINE" Division contributed a full share to the success of our nation's arms, and helped write the glorious pages of history of those Divisions who served in the battle-line?

When American troops barred the way to the enemy at Chateau-Thierry, men of the 40th Division were there.

With the 26th ("YANKEE") Division, replacements from the 40th Division stood in the trenches in the Toul Sector; fought in Foch's epic battle of mid-July; stormed the Bois des Eparges at the Battle of St. Mihiel; raced down the Grande Tranchee de Galonns on the famous night march that brought junction between the two American armies in attack, and cut off thousands of German prisoners, and fought to the last in the operations of the 26th Division, North of Verdun, which ended with the Armistice, November 11.

Our machine-gunners gained the highest commendation of their commanders in the 32nd ("RED-ARROW") Division, composed originally of the National Guard of Michigan and Wisconsin; they fought with this Division in its brilliance and glorious storming of the Kriemhilde-Stellung line, the last organized line of the enemy defense, south of the Meuse.

Four thousand of our beloved "SUNSHINERS" went to fill up the ranks of the 77th ("METROPOLITAN") Division, from New York, and drove forward with the 77th Division in its remarkable advance through the Argonne Forest, to the left bank of the Meuse, southeast of Sedan. The officers of this Division testified in glowing terms to the splendid deportment of these men from the West.

One thousand "SUNSHINE" replacements went to the 81st ("WILDCAT") Division; 2,000 replacements went to the 28th ("KEYSTONE") Division from Pennsylvania; 2,000 each to the 80th ("BLUE RIDGE") Division, and the 82nd ("ALL-AMERICAN") and the 89th ("MIDDLE WEST") Divisions.

In all—the "SUNSHINE" Division sent more than 27,000 replacements to the Combat Divisions of the A. E. F.

Our officers and soldiers were with the famed "Lost Battalion" of the 77th Division, in the Argonne. Captain Nelson M. Holderman, of Company L, of the old Seventh California, and Captain Leo A. Strome, of Company K, of the old Seventh California, served as Company Commanders in the Lost Battalion. Both were wounded in action, Captain Holderman suffering severe wounds on four successive days, October 4, 5, 6 and 7, 1918.

For "Conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty," Captain Holderman was awarded the Congressional MEDAL OF HONOR. He was also awarded the PURPLE HEART MEDAL, and received decorations for valor from France and Belgium.

Captain Strome was awarded the SILVER STAR CITATION for valor, and the PURPLE HEART MEDAL.

Both Captains Holderman and Strome were awarded the California State Medal for valor and distinguished service while serving with the California National Guard.

Another "SUNSHINER," Captain Arthur King, of Company C, old Seventh California, was awarded the DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS, while serving with the First Division, A. E. F.

Many other "SUNSHINERS" served with honor and distinction, with the Combat Divisions of the A. E. F. Many paid the supreme sacrifice in service to their country on the field of battle.

We of the 40th Division saw Division after Division leap forward to the battle, advance gloriously against stout resistance and enormous obstacles, and retire from the line with great gaps in their ranks. The battle must go on. The enemy must not be given a moment. Two hundred replacements here—three thousand replacements there—in groups of hundreds and thousands—they were thrown into these gaps—these men of our "SUNSHINE" Division. Well trained, as we knew them to be, and inspired by an especially high morale that characterized our Division, these "SUNSHINE" replacements brought confidence and encouragement with them, wherever they were sent. Their graves are on every battlefield that bears witness to the valor of the American Army in Europe. As they carried away from us our abiding and affectionate interest, we knew that they bore with them an abiding faith and affectionate loyalty to the organization that trained them and sent them forth to battle.

It is of record that the 40th "SUNSHINE" Division ranked seventh among the Combat Divisions of the A. E. F., in casualties, 2,587 being killed in battle; 11,596 were wounded in action; 70 taken prisoners, and 103 died at Camp Kearney Base Hospital.

John A. Sutter, pioneer of 1839, who founded the City of Sacramento.

In no grudging sense, in no spirit of narrow sectionalism, do we say it, but, when our countrymen from other sections of these United States rightly acclaim the high deeds of the Divisions that were associated with their communities, we suggest that it be remembered that the lives of thousands of the incomparable sons of the Great West were laid down to write their pages of history.

Not in a spirit of detraction, not in a spirit of criticism, but in the spirit of fraternity, we emphasize the fact that the great military traditions established in the World War which will be treasured in New England, New York, Michigan, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, and in many other sections, were created in part by men of the "SUNSHINE" Division, from ARIZONA, CALIFORNIA, COLORADO, NEVADA, NEW MEXICO, and UTAH.

RAY I. FOLLMER,

Lieutenant Colonel, United States Army,
Adjutant and Inspector, 40th Division, A. E. F.

The signing of the Armistice, November 11, 1918, brought about a cessation of hostilities. Peace, however, was not officially declared until a Joint Resolution, passed by the Congress of the United States, signed by President Harding, July 2, 1921; signed at Berlin, August 25, 1921, by United States and German representatives; ratified by the German National Council, September 17, 1921, and, finally, ratified by the United States Senate, October 18, 1921.

The general feeling after the World War throughout the United States was that the war had ended, and enthusiasm in military affairs was hard to arouse. Veteran National Guardsmen of California, Utah and Nevada, had different ideas, and as early as December, 1918, new companies were rapidly formed. It was not until 1920 and 1921, however, that organizations—by regiments—were reorganized by direction of the Adjutants General

Colonel Nelson M. Holderman, one of the two men to ever receive the California "Medal of Valor." While Captain, 160th Infantry (Seventh California Infantry), California National Guard, he was transferred to the 308th Infantry, 77th Division, actively participating in the operations of the "Lost Battalion" and, although severely wounded October 4, 5 and 7, and suffering from great pain, distinguished himself by his courageous conduct above and beyond the call of duty, which was an inspiration to the men of this command.

Lieutenant Colonel Leo A. Strome, one of the two men to ever be awarded the California "Medal of Valor." While Captain, 160th Infantry (Seventh California Infantry), California National Guard, he was transferred to the 308th Infantry, 77th Division, where he actively participated in the operation of the "Lost Battalion" and although severely wounded distinguished himself by continuing to lead and encourage the officers and men of his command.

of these far-Western States. Again—the citizen-soldiery responded to the call of the "Community, State and Nation," and once more armories and drill halls resounded to the tramp of marching men, and the sharp rhythmic snap of rifles carrying on in the manual of arms.

On June 18, 1926, by War Department General Order, the 40th Division was reorganized, with Headquarters at Berkeley, California. Units of the National Guard of California, Utah and Nevada were assigned to the newly organized "SUNSHINE" Division.

Major General David S. Barrows commanded the 40th Division from June 18, 1926, to June 30, 1937.

Major General Walter P. Story assumed command of the 40th Division, July 7, 1937.

In 1937, the Headquarters of the 40th Division was moved to Los Angeles.

Encampments of the 40th Division have been held regularly since 1927, when the Division assembled at Del Monte, California.

On July 4, 1928, Camp San Luis Obispo was officially dedicated by Brigadier General Richard E. Mittelstaedt, Adjutant General, State of California. The original site included 2,989.67 acres, owned by the State of California, and 1,200 acres, leased.

During this present-day period of Army expansion, the facilities at Camp San Luis Obispo, have been increased to facilitate the operations and training of the 40th Division at its present war-strength of 18,000 officers and soldiers.

The components of the 40th Division are as follows:

Headquarters and Medical Detachment; Headquarters Detachment; Medical Department Detachment; Headquarters Company; 40th Military Police Company; 40th Signal Company; 115th Ordnance Company.

79th Infantry Brigade: 159th Infantry; 184th Infantry.
80th Infantry Brigade: 160th Infantry; 185th Infantry.
65th Field Artillery Brigade: 143rd Field Artillery;
145th Field Artillery; 222nd Field Artillery.

115th Medical Regiment.

THE ARMY OF THE UNITED STATES

The Constitution gives to Congress the power to raise and support armies and designates the President as Commander-in-Chief. By the National Defense Act of June 3, 1916, as later amended by other laws, Congress constituted the Army of the United States in six components: the Regular Army, the National Guard of the United States, the National Guard while in the service of the United States, the Officers' Reserve Corps, the Organized Reserves, and the Enlisted Reserve Corps.

Each component of the Army consists of officers and enlisted men divided into combat arms, such as the Infantry, Air Corps, and Field Artillery, and into services, such as the Medical Department and the Quartermaster Corps. Each arm, service, and bureau has a "Chief" in Washington. The arms, services, and bureaus are as follows:

ARMS

Infantry, Cavalry, Tank Corps, Coast Artillery, Air Corps, Field Artillery, Corps of Engineers, Signal Corps.

SERVICES

Adjutant General's Department, Inspector General's Department, Judge Advocate General's Department, Quartermaster Corps, Finance Department, Medical Department, Chemical Warfare Service, Corps of Chaplains.

BUREAU

National Guard Bureau.

In general the arms do the actual fighting in battle, and the services assist the arms by supplying them with food, clothing, weapons, ammunition, and other supplies, and by furnishing transportation, medical care, and other assistance.

Some of the services, however, may come into direct contact with the enemy and then have to fight for their own protection. On the other hand, a few of the arms, particularly the Corps of Engineers, and the Signal Corps, may not only engage directly in combat with the enemy but furnish certain special supplies to the other arms.

A few of the services are composed entirely of Army officers; the other arms and services consist of both officers and enlisted men, and are organized into units of different sizes running from squads of a dozen men or less up to regiments or brigades of several thousand men. The largest unit completely organized in peace is the division, which is composed of infantry or cavalry and other arms and services. Still larger units are, of course, organized for maneuvers or in our war-time Army corps, made up of several divisions and additional troops, and field armies which may be formed of several corps and other troops.

THE DIVISION

There are two types of Infantry Divisions—the triangular (streamlined) division and the square division. The Triangular Division (streamlined), consists of 12,500 officers and soldiers; the Square Division (Infantry), 18,500 officers and soldiers; the Cavalry Division, 10,000 officers and soldiers.

THE CORPS

The Corps—often called "Army Corps," to distinguish it from arms and services which have the word "corps" as part of their names, such as the Corps of Engineers and the Coast Artillery Corps, has a strength of 65,000 to 90,000 officers and soldiers. It is composed of infantry divisions of both types or of cavalry divisions, and of additional brigades, regiments, and battalions, from many different arms and services. It contains officers of all arms and services.

THE ARMY

The Army—often called "Field Army," to distinguish it from the whole Army of the United States, has a war strength of approximately 200,000 to 400,000 officers and soldiers. It is composed of corps, and of additional units from several arms and services.

For strategical military purposes, the United States is divided into four Army Areas, and for military administrative purposes, into Nine Corps Areas.

THE FOURTH ARMY

The Fourth Army consists of the 7th Corps Area, with Headquarters at Omaha, Nebraska, and the 9th Corps Area, with Headquarters at San Francisco, California.

THE NINTH CORPS AREA

The following states are included in the 9th Corps Area: Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Utah, Nevada, Arizona (in part), California and Alaska (in part).

THE 40TH DIVISION

The present-day 40th Division, United States Army, was inducted into the Federal Service March 3, 1941, as it is now constituted, made up for the most part by the National Guard of California, Utah and Nevada. The commissioned personnel has been increased by additional officers from the Officers' Reserve Corps. Since June, the enlisted strength of the Division has been increased by the addition to the ranks of Selective Service men. The 40th Division is now practically at its war-strength of 18,500 officers and soldiers.

The 40th Division has practically lost its identity as a "National Guard Division," being in every sense of the word—"In the Army." And, that is as it should be. Rapid Army expansion has increased the tempo of all things, and the 40th Division personnel has kept apace with the trend of events.

The commissioned personnel of the 40th Division has, by modern methods—fitness and selection—passed on to higher grades. Junior and Senior officers alike have received the benefits of Army Service and Technical and Specialists Schools. The enlisted personnel, likewise, especially the non-commissioned officers, have also become highly "specialized" by attendance at Professional and Specialty Schools.

Promotion "from the ranks" has created a high state of morale, and many "Shavetails"—Second Lieutenants—of the 40th Division began their military career in the "rear rank" of their old National Guard Company.

The personnel, in its entirety, is, today, as it was in the beginning, and will continue to be so during the "March of Time." These "Sunshiners" of today resemble in every way the old National Guardsmen of yesteryear. Father and son, alike, have seen service in the 40th Division of yesterday, and are serving again today.

These "Sunshiners" of today, coming as they do from these far-Western States, have grown up in the spirit of the West—hardy and enduring. They have enjoyed life to its fullest, and with every facility constantly at hand for their mental and moral and physical well-being, they now stand today at the height of their manly glory.

MAJOR GENERAL WALTER P. STORY

Major General Walter P. Story, who commanded the 40th Infantry Division from June 28, 1937, through its initial period of induction into Federal service in 1941 until taken seriously ill in June, 1941, was born in the State of Montana, December 18, 1883, of pioneer stock whose origin dates back to 1640 in Massachusetts.

As a beginning to his distinguished service in World War I, General Story fathered what was then Battery A of the California Field Artillery (later Battery A, 143rd F. A.), recruited the Battery, raised funds to build an armory and stables in Los Angeles.

Shortly after discharge from World War I service, Captain Walter P. Story began devoting his energies toward reorganizing the National Guard of Southern California. He first organized a separate infantry company, later evolved it into the Third Separate Battalion. From this nucleus he formed the 160th Infantry, and as its Colonel commanded it for several years, inaugurating accredited schools directed by Army Instructors, and candidate classes through which enlisted men showing ability and initiative could become junior officers. He founded the 160th Infantry Guardsman, which continued in publication until discontinued to make possible the state-wide organ, The California Guardsman.

Upon formation of the 40th Division General Story took the Fort Leavenworth examinations before a Regular Army Board at the Presidio of San Francisco, passed with a high average and was assigned to command the 80th Brigade, a command which he held for 11 years until commissioned Major General and assigned to command the 40th Division in July, 1937.

General Story was a member of the Class of 1903, Shattuck Military Academy, graduate of the Army War College G-2 Course, the Ninth Corps Area Command and Staff Course and the General Officers' Class, Fort Benning, Georgia.

Only a few days after his arrival at home station from the Army War College in 1933 disaster struck the Long Beach area and General Story was placed in complete charge of the situation. The efficiency with which this duty was accomplished clearly indicated his leadership and ability to organize and command. Various types of special mobile equipment developed by the General through his experiences during this period have since proved their utility and necessity.

General Story brought to the military service a lifetime of experience as a businessman and an executive. The General's civic record is as outstanding as his military record. Citizen, soldier and gentleman, prominent member of the Los Angeles community, much of the General's life has been spent in service to his fellowman.

The spirit of General Story has been reflected down through the ranks of the 40th Division. Having risen from a private in the rear rank to Commanding General he possesses an unusually deep understanding of the military. This understanding has been a clearly defined influence in the high morale of the 40th Division.

BRIGADIER GENERAL ERNEST J. DAWLEY

Brigadier General E. J. Dawley, present commander of the 40th Infantry Division, was born in Wisconsin on February 17, 1886.

His army career started in 1906 when he entered the United States Military Academy. Upon graduation four years later he was commissioned a Second Lieutenant of Field Artillery.

Prior to the World War he had seen service in the Philippines and various points in the continental limits of the United States, and in 1916 he served with the Punitive Expedition in Mexico with the Sixth Field Artillery. When the war broke out, General Dawley, then First Lieutenant, was with the Seventh Field Artillery at Fort Sam Houston, with which organization he went to France. He became a Captain in May, 1917.

After arriving in France he attended the French Artillery School at Fontainebleau and later became Executive Officer at the Samur Artillery School. On February 7, 1918, he was promoted to Major (temporary) and in May of that year joined and served on the Staff of the First Corps Artillery. In July he took command of the First Battalion, 12th Field Artillery, a part of the Second Division, and in August, 1918, he was assigned to the G-3 Section of the General Staff of the First Army. On September 18, 1918, he was promoted to the grade of Lieutenant Colonel.

Later he served as G-3 of the Second Army Artillery and with the 16th Field Artillery of the Fourth Division. On December 1, 1918, he was appointed to the G-3 Section GHQ.

In March, 1919, General Dawley was appointed a member of the Field Mission to the Baltic States for the Peace Conference, remaining on that duty until September of that year.

Upon his return from overseas he served in the Department of Tactics at the U. S. Military Academy, remaining there until July, 1924.

General Dawley is a graduate of the Advanced Course, Field Artillery School, 1926, and the Command and General Staff School, Fort Leavenworth, 1927. From 1927 to 1930 he served in the office of the Chief of Field Artillery.

From August, 1930, to August, 1933, he commanded the Second Battalion, 76th Field Artillery at the Presidio of Monterey. He attended the Army War College for the 1933-1934 Course. In 1934 he held the post of the Field Artillery Instructor at the Infantry School.

Upon leaving the Infantry School in July, 1939, he commanded the 82nd Field Artillery, a part of the First Cavalry Division.

On October 1, 1940, he was appointed a Brigadier General, U. S. A. (temporary), and on October 25, 1940, assumed command of the Seventh Division Artillery. He was attached to the 40th Infantry Division June 23, 1941, as temporary commander, and was assigned as Division Commander September 2, 1941. He was appointed a Major General October 1, 1941.

The stars swing down the western steep,
And soon the east will burn with day,
And we shall struggle up from sleep
And sling our packs and march away.

In this brief hour before the dawn
Has struck our bivouac with flame
I think of men whose brows have borne
The iron wreath of deadly flame.

I see the fatal phalanx creep
Like death, across the world and back,
With eyes that only strive to keep
Bucephalus' immortal track.

I see the legion wheel through Gaul,
The sword and flame on hearth and home,
And all the men who had to fall
That Caesar might be first in Rome.

I see the horde of Genghis Khan
Spread outward like the dawn of day
To trample golden Khorassan
And thunder over fair Cathay.

I see the grizzled grenadier,
The dark dragoon, the gay hussar,
Whose shoulders bore for many a year
Their little emperor's blazing star.

I see these things, still I am slave
When banners flaunt and bugles blow,
Content to fill a soldier's grave,
For reasons I shall never know.

San Luis Obispo County lies between the 35th and 36th parallels of latitude. It occupies about ninety miles, nearly one-tenth of California's ocean front. Beginning at the mouth of the Santa Maria River, the northern boundary of the neighboring county of Santa Barbara, the shore line winds northwesterly to the sixth parallel, the southern limit of Monterey County. Viewed from the ocean, during the long rainless summer months, in brilliant sunshine and under cloudless skies, with its long stretches of beach, laced and spangled with the slow-reaching waves, with its boundary walls of beautifully colored hills, it is a fairy spectacle.

During the half century which followed the landing of Columbus, the armed hosts of Spain quite thoroughly explored the vast new territory which the nation had so wonderfully acquired. Cortez had overrun and conquered Mexico; Vaca had traversed the continent from Florida to the Gulf of California; Ulloa, Mendoza and Ximenes had traced the shores of that Gulf and skirted those of the peninsula of Lower California; Alarcon had sailed up the Colorado River; Coronado had reached the plains of Kansas.

It was in 1542 that these long-continued efforts of the treasure hunters were finally directed to the north-western coast of the continent. Mendoza was then Viceroy of Mexico and it was under his orders that the Portuguese Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo and his lieutenant Ferrollo, with two small vessels, the San Salvador and the Vitoria, sailed along the coast from Navidad to the 42nd degree of latitude, establishing for Spain, by right of their discoveries, dominion over all that part of the continent of North America. Cabrillo saw this part of the country from his ship but landed (and died) during the winter on the island of San Miguel.

The era of Spanish explorers practically ceased with the voyage of Cabrillo for nearly sixty years. But long before that the fond dream of Columbus of a new pathway for European commerce to the Indies had been realized. Magellan had discovered the Philippines and in a few years the islands became the shipping point for a great commerce.

It was in the hope of finding harbors of refuge for the vessels embarked in this trade that in 1602, the Conde de Monterey finally commissioned Sebastian Viscaino, to sail with his ships for the discovery "of harbors and bays of the coast of the South Sea as far as Cape Mendocino." In December of that year Viscaino landed on the shores of the Bay of San Luis Obispo.

But 167 years were still to pass before any attempt at occupation or colonization was made.

It was only in 1769, after the political destinies of the rest of the North American continent had been practically settled, that Spain, recognizing that to hold the vast territory she claimed in Alta, California, actual possession had become necessary, organized expeditions for that purpose. They were confided to the direction of Father Junipero Serra and Gaspar de Portola, names ever illustrious in the history of the state.

The political object, that of peopling the country, was largely to be attained through the conversion and civilization of the natives.

For this purpose, Missions were to be established at short distances from each other as centers of influence, and a slender military force at each, lent its assistance and protection to the padres. The objects of the expeditions were very successfully attained and many Missions were established. Among them, on September 1, 1772, Father Serra founded that of San Luis Obispo de Toloso.

The attendant ceremonies were of the simplest. The great padre arrived from Monterey accompanied by the Commandante Fages, and, as guard, a corporal and four soldiers together with Fray Joseph Caballar, of the Mission of San Antonio, to be left in charge of the new institution.

With the unerring judgment exhibited in the location of all the California missions, the site for the new home for the church was determined. It was on a low hill, skirted by perennial streams of water and sheltered by two neighboring peaks, one of which, in some aspects of its rugged summit, exhibited a triple peak, suggesting the form of a mitre and received the name of the Bishop's Peak.

Under the reign of Father Caballar, the Mission of San Luis Obispo prospered. Fertile valleys yielded huge crops, herds multiplied, and orchards reared their heads until the Mission became the wealthiest in the territory. Vessels from Mexico and the Philippines cast anchor in the harbor and carried away cargoes of hides and tallow, of wheat and olive oil. It became noted for its hospitality. A stranger might slaughter an animal from the nearest herd and it was quite understood that he had entirely met the exigencies of the case if he courteously suspended the hide where the owner of the beast could find it. And it is only in recent years that this hospitable notion has been entirely eradicated from the minds of the still existing descendants of those ancient occupants of the land.

For a while peace descended on the land. It was a golden age of slumberous, measureless content. Foreigners, not Catholic or Spanish were hurriedly deported, but in the meantime, vast changes were taking place in other parts of the continent. Immigrants from Europe were arriving in great numbers, France had acquired a splendid domain in Canada and by the fortunes of war had lost it. The "Thirteen Colonies" of England had revolted from the mother country. The Spanish possessions on the Pacific Coast were gazed at covetously by Russia and England. If Spain would hold her possessions she must prepare to defend her rights. She had slept too long upon them.

But, under the Mission leadership and with few soldiers except for defense against wild bands of Indians, it was a peaceful country and unable to change its nature overnight.

It had been a time of continuous warfare in Mexico, between 1811 and 1821 and it was with bitter amazement and dismay that, in the latter year, Sola, then governor of California, beheld an armed vessel under a flag of strange design, anchoring in the Bay of Monterey. They were conquered in the name of Iturbide, Liberator and Emperor of Mexico.

A few months later the wheel of fortune turned again. Iturbide and his Empire vanished and a new revolution created the Republic of Mexico. With resignation and rapidity the Californians changed their allegiance. Within the year, they had been subjects of the Kingdom of Spain, the Empire of Mexico, and the new Republic.

The Missions were allowed to continue, although the new rulers helped themselves to the revenue of the Church and some of the Mission Fathers, including Father Luis Antonia Martinez of the Mission of San Luis Obispo fled to escape persecution.

But the Mission has remained throughout the years, despite the fact that the coffers were plundered, the bulging barns and storehouses depleted of their grain and stocks of various products, and the cattle on the hill driven off. Its quiet beauty remained, although scarred by the ravages of time. Perched upon a slight eminence with its long stretch of white walls and red-tiled roofs, the towering facade of the church, pierced and recessed for its bells and surmounted by its cross, is still a striking feature of the landscape. El Camino Real, "The King's Highway," ran before it and thousands in fast motor cars still follow the ancient trail of the Missions over asphalt and concrete to pass near that hallowed spot erected almost two centuries ago.

The history of California and San Luis Obispo is one of romance, adventure and heroic pioneering of hardy ancients. It is one of strife and bloodshed, of peace and happiness. From that day when Cabrillo, clinging to the rigging of his curious little cockle-shell vessel on a dark November day almost four centuries ago first laid eyes on

As the Mission appears today.

San Luis Obispo to its present day status as one of the outstanding counties in the State of California, is a story that would fill hundreds of pages with interesting historical reading matter. Many of the great names in history first saw the light of day with the Pacific Ocean before them and the rising sun at their backs. From that day in 1846 when California became a part of the United States and in 1849 when San Luis Obispo became one of the ten districts in the new Territory of California, it has gone forward with time, maintaining always by preservation of its missions, its names and its romance, the glory of the days that were.

SEVENTY-NINTH INFANTRY BRIGADE

G R E E T I N G S

To the Officers and Men of the 79th Infantry Brigade:

On the third day of this month, we will have completed four months of hard, intensive training. We have developed into strong battalions at war strength. This has been accomplished only through days of long, hard work by both officers and men.

This Brigade is made up of units, composed of loyal, efficient officers with a high sense of duty, and men of the highest type of soldierly qualities. All have a high state of fighting morale. When it is committed to combat, I am certain it will not fail to give an excellent account of itself. I know that you, as I, are proud of the "Old 79th," and that your pride will grow with the growth of this Brigade in importance as a first-line defense unit of the United States Army.

To all of you, I deem it a special privilege and an honor to direct these greetings. We know not what is ahead, but with your continued earnest help and loyalty, we can and will overcome even greater obstacles.

Wishing you good luck and successes,

Sincerely yours,

Brigadier General, U. S. A.
Commanding.

HISTORY OF THE 79TH INFANTRY BRIGADE

The 79th Infantry Brigade, composed of the 144th Machine Gun Battalion, the 157th Infantry and the 158th Infantry, came into being September 24, 1917, in compliance with General Order Number 101 of the War Department. Brigadier General Alexander M. Tuthill was placed in command of the newly-formed Brigade.

Brigade Headquarters Detachment was organized on the same date with the following muster roll: General A. M. Tuthill, Major Frank H. Hayes and Private Marlin M. Myers. By the end of the year the addition was noted of Brigade Adjutant, First Lieutenant Joseph W. Whitney, A. D. C., to Brigadier General Tuthill, Second Lieutenant Fred J. Bolender, V. R. C., and Regimental Sergeant Major Elmer O. Gardner.

From this time onward, until the Brigade Headquarters Detachment was ordered overseas with the 79th Infantry Brigade, it performed the usual duties incumbent upon Brigade Headquarters, the Headquarters of the 79th Infantry Brigade at all times requiring the 79th Infantry Brigade to maintain a high standard of efficiency, adhering strictly to drill schedules and regulations as prescribed by Headquarters, 40th Division. This was well demonstrated during the practice maneuvers and ten-day march held in compliance with instructions from the Commanding General of the 40th Division which started on April 11, 1918, and ended on April 19, 1918, during the last two days of which the 79th Infantry and the 80th Infantry were declared to be in a state of war and which resulted in the victory of the 79th Infantry Brigade by the capture of Camp Kearney, California, on the 19th day of April, 1918, at 12:30 P.M.

Headquarters Detachment, 79th Infantry Brigade, upon receipt of confidential orders, left Camp Kearney at 4:00 P.M., July 31, 1918, with two attached V. C. officers and 28 enlisted men, and arrived at Camp Mills, L. I., August 6, 1918, with the detail intact and there they were joined by the Brigade Commander and other officers.

On August 8, 1918, the Detachment left Camp Mills for port of embarkation, Boston, where they immediately boarded H. M. S. "Berrima," which sailed August 9. After an uneventful voyage which lasted 17 days, they reached Tilbury Docks at London, and from there proceeded by rail to Southampton, marching from the railway station to the Southampton Rest Camp, where they were billeted for the night.

The next day the Brigade was on its way, boarding the S. S. "Charles" at noon and crossing to Le Havre, France, landing there August 26, 1918. From the dock at Le Havre they were transported to Le Havre Rest Camp for a short stop, but the same day they were aboard a train for La Guerche (Cher), where they arrived August 29.

By this time most of the members of the detachment were getting tired traveling, but there was no rest. After night in La Guerche (Cher) they were on their way again, marching to Chateau Bernay, Chautay, where Brigade Headquarters was finally established. Here roll was called and showed Brigade Headquarters to have the following officers present: Brigadier General A. M. Tuthill, the Adjutant Major F. H. Hayes, First Lieutenant C. F. Cusack, A. D. C., and two attached V. C. officers; Lieutenants E. T. Martin and Jos. J. Buller and 28 enlisted men.

At this time the 40th Division was changed into the Sixth Depot Division and charged with furnishing replacements.

Major Frank H. Hayes left for the Army Staff College at Langres and was later transferred to the 86th Division, Lieutenant C. F. Cusack acting as Brigade Adjutant until January 1, 1919, when Major Norma L. King was assigned to duty with the Brigade as Adjutant. First Lieutenant S. H. Cliff joined the Brigade also as A. D. C. to Brigadier General Tuthill.

On November 2, 1918, the 79th Infantry Brigade moved by rail to Revigny (Meuse) where they arrived November 4 and were billeted in the immediate vicinity of Revigny. Headquarters Detachment was temporarily billeted at Barracks No. 5 and later established at No. 26 Rue De St. Menehould. Here they remained until January 7, 1919. In the meantime, the 158th Infantry and the 144th Machine Gun Battalion were located at Chelles where they constituted a Regional Depot and absorbed the Corps Replacement Battalion and the surplus personnel was utilized as replacements. This Regional Depot functioned for all arms and services of all American forces.

January 7, 1919, the 79th Infantry Brigade, that is that portion in the vicinity of Revigny (Meuse), left by rail for Billeting Area No. 3, where they remained for one night, establishing Headquarters at Chateau Gazailhan at Gradignan (Gironde) on January 10. At this station they rejoined the 158th Infantry and the 144th Machine Gun Battalion.

Here the Brigade remained until they returned to the United States and were demobilized.

On November 25, 1922, the 79th Infantry Brigade of the California National Guard was re-activated, consisting of the 159th and 160th Regiments of Infantry, together with the Medical personnel attached thereto. Brigadier General J. J. Borree, the Adjutant General of the State of California, was assigned to command the Brigade. Upon his resignation, December 13, 1924, Colonel David P. Barrows was assigned to the command, rising to the rank of Brigadier General while commanding the 79th Brigade. General Barrows was commissioned a Major General and assigned to command the 40th Division June 18, 1926, upon which Brigadier General Walter P. Story assumed command, holding this until May 6, 1929, when the 79th Brigade was redesignated the 80th Brigade.

On March 18, 1930, a new Brigade Headquarters was organized, stationed in Sacramento, and designated "Headquarters, 79th Infantry Brigade." Brigadier General Wallace A. Mason was placed in command, holding it until he retired September 30, 1918, when Brigadier General Richard E. Mittelstaedt took over the command.

Headquarters, 79th Brigade, was restationed at Berkeley, March 16, 1925, and on October 16, 1926, was redesignated "80th Brigade." When the 79th was redesignated as the 80th Brigade, at Los Angeles, the 160th Infantry and the 185th Infantry (newly organized) were assigned the 80th Brigade. To the new 79th Brigade were assigned the 159th Infantry, San Francisco, and the 184th Infantry, of Sacramento. This final designation holds good to this day.

On March 3, 1941, the 79th Brigade was inducted into Federal service and on April 8, 1941, Brigadier General Albert E. Wilfong assumed command of the Brigade.

August 1, 1941

To the Soldiers of the 159th Infantry:

I bring to the soldiers of the 159th Infantry my sincere appreciation of the splendid efforts they have made to foster and perpetuate the traditions and standards of this fine old Regiment. While my service here is less in number of days than yours, it is apparent that each of you, within the limitations of ability and training, are actuated by a desire to maintain this as an outstanding organization.

As present members of this regiment we hold a sacred trust to keep inviolate the principles that have been inculcated by those who have gone before. This will be done by maintaining a high standard of military conduct and by a full performance of duty. We are fully confident that when our tour of duty has ended that the record will say of each and every soldier of the 159th that he performed his duty as a man, as a citizen, and as a soldier and was ever true to all that a soldier represents.

Sincerely,

HISTORY OF THE 159TH INFANTRY

The 159th United States Infantry is the successor of the Fifth California Infantry, National Guard, plus six companies of the Second California Infantry, National Guard.

Lieutenant Colonel Leonard M. Farrell, first Commanding Officer of the Regiment, had long and continuous service in military affairs, having enlisted as a Private, February 14, 1898, for service in the Spanish-American War, serving continuously since date of enlistment in every grade and rank to the post of Regimental Commander. He also served with the Regiment on the Mexican Border in 1916.

The Second California Infantry came into being as a result of the muster out of the First Artillery, National Guard of California, in 1889, and was called into State service at Sacramento, in connection with the railroad strike in 1904.

During the Spanish-American War, the Regiment was called into service and stationed at Benecia Arsenal, California, under the command of Colonel Park Henshaw.

In 1907, the Regiments of the California National Guard—the Second and the Sixth, were consolidated into the Second, with headquarters at Sacramento, California.

From June 19, 1916, to November 15, 1916, the Second and Fifth Regiments were in the Federal service in connection with the Mexican Border trouble, and were stationed at Nogales, Arizona, most of the time.

They were again mobilized for active service on March 31, 1917, and were mustered into Federal service August 5, 1917.

Nearly two years passed after the close of the World War before any definite plan for the reorganization of the military forces of the United States was adopted. The delay was caused by two divergent opinions held by the military experts of our country. One group believed that the safety of the country depended upon a large standing army of approximately 5,000,000 men supplemented by compulsory military training of all American youths. The opposing faction believed in a relatively small standing army supplemented by a well trained and fully equipped National Guard. The latter group was supported by the National Guard Association and nearly all patriotic organizations. The chief argument of the National Guard enthusiasts was that their plans would be less expensive than the maintenance of a large standing army, and finally, their plan was adopted.

The appropriation of funds by Congress for the fiscal year 1921, to 1922, permitted the Militia Bureau to allot to the State of California the organization of two Infantry Regiments, reorganized and recognized by the United States War Department on October 1, 1921. The nucleus of the 159th was formed by the reconstitution of the First Separate Battalion of Infantry on February 1, 1921. David P. Barrows was commissioned Major on February 19, 1921, and placed in command of the First Separate Battalion. Major Barrows' military record was as follows: Graduated from the Officers' Reserve Corps at the Presidio, in San Francisco and commissioned Major of Cavalry, and later promoted to Lieutenant Colonel, Cavalry. He served in the Siberia Expedition during the World War. With that experience as a foundation, Major Barrows entered the National Guard of California and played an important part in its reorganization.

On September 30, 1921, Adjutant General's Order No. 17, was issued, the third paragraph of which reads as follows:

The 159th Infantry, California National Guard, is organized as follows, with stations of subdivisions indicated; effective October 1, 1921:

Regimental Headquarters, Oakland; Regimental Headquarters Company, Oakland; Service Company, Oakland; Howitzer Company, Berkeley.

FIRST BATTALION

Headquarters, Berkeley; Headquarters Company, Oakland; Company A, Berkeley; Company B, Oakland; Company C, Berkeley; Company D,

SECOND BATTALION

Headquarters, Fresno; Headquarters Company, Fresno; Company E, Colusa; Company F, Sacramento; Company G, Fresno; Company H, Fresno.

THIRD BATTALION

Headquarters, San Francisco; Headquarters Company, San Francisco; Company I, San Francisco; Company K, San Francisco; Company L, San Francisco; Company M, San Francisco.

Although the order officially organized the 159th Infantry Regiment on October 1, 1921, it was not until July 12, 1922, that the Regiment was completely organized in accordance with United States Army regulations. The Medical Detachment was the last organization to be mustered in on June 13, 1922.

About a month later, on July 15, 1922, the 159th Infantry Regiment attended camp at Del Monte, California. This was the first time the various units of the Regiment were together, as the Second Battalion was located in Fresno, Sacramento, and Colusa. The accomplishments of the Regiment during the encampment were outstanding and received commendation from Colonel L. R. Holbrook, Chief of Staff, Ninth Corps Area.

Just prior to the encampment of 1924, several changes took place in the 159th Infantry. These changes were made necessary by the formation of a Third Regiment of Infantry, California National Guard, to be known as the 184th Infantry Regiment. To this new organization, Headquarters Company, Second Battalion, and Companies E, F, G, and H of the 159th Infantry Regiment were transferred. The following units were then transferred to the 159th: Third Separate Company of San Jose, as Company E; First Separate Company, Infantry, Hayward, as Company F; Company M, 184th Infantry Regiment as Company H, and the Second Separate Company of Infantry, Palo Alto replaced Company G. The new arrangement brought the Second Battalion nearer to the other companies of the Regiment, the most distant units being 50 miles from headquarters.

The record reveals that only three units of the 159th Infantry Regiment were disbanded in the 16 years of its history. All other changes were the result of the formation of new Regiments or Corps that necessitated the withdrawal of all units then existed in the territory allotted to the new regiment. In 1922, the 159th Infantry Regiment was scattered from Riverside to the northern part of the State. The organization of the 184th Infantry Regiment in 1924, resulted in assigning the Sacramento and San Joaquin Valley units of the 159th and 160th Infantry Regiments to the 184th. New units were organized nearer the San Francisco Bay area and added to the 159th so that the 159th Infantry Regiment was located in San Francisco, Alameda, and Santa Clara Counties at the close of the year 1924. At the close of 1937, Headquarters Company, Second Battalion, and Companies E and H were still located in San Jose, all the other units of the Regiment were in either San Francisco or Alameda Counties.

Important changes were made in the Commanding Officers of the Regiment. Colonel David P. Barrows was promoted to Brigadier-General on June 17, 1925, and Lieutenant Colonel Adolphus J. Eddy was promoted to Colonel on the same date. Colonel Eddy began his military career in the National Guard of Oregon, where he served as Corporal and Sergeant from 1900 to 1904. Soon after the entrance of the United States into the World War, Colonel Eddy entered the Officers' Training Corps. The date was May 15, 1917. In August, 1917, he graduated as First Lieutenant, Coast Artillery Corps and was promoted to Captain November 30, 1917. While in France with the Expeditionary Forces he was promoted to Major, Coast Artillery Corps on November 2, 1918. Returning to California after the war, Colonel Eddy entered the National Guard of California and was commissioned Captain of Company H, First Separate Battalion on May 4, 1921. He was promoted to Major, First Battalion on January 2, 1922, and played an important part in the formation of the 159th Infantry Regiment. On September 6, 1923, Major Eddy was advanced to Lieutenant-Colonel, and in 1925, to Colonel. For five years and eleven days Colonel Eddy commanded the Regiment, devoting his time and talent to promote and increase the efficiency of the 159th. Like thousands of others who served in the World War, he eventually paid the supreme sacrifice.

He died as the result of a necessary major operation for a disorder that developed while overseas.

Lieutenant Colonel Wayne R. Allen succeeded Colonel Eddy as commander of the Regiment. Colonel Allen's record is also one of unusual merit. He had served 14 years in the 159th Infantry Regiment when promoted to the rank of Colonel. His service began in 1915 when he joined Company F, Fifth Infantry Regiment. He served in Company F when the Fifth Infantry was on the Mexican Border in 1916, and also when that Regiment was called into Federal service for duty during the World War. When the Fifth Infantry Regiment was redesignated the 159th Infantry Regiment, Colonel Allen was First Sergeant in Company F. On October 13, 1917, he was appointed Second Lieutenant and assigned to Company C, 159th Infantry Regiment. When the 40th Division, of which the 159th was a unit, was converted into the Sixth Depot Replacement in France, Colonel Allen was transferred to the 372nd Infantry, 157th French Division, and was assigned to the command of Company H of that Regiment. He saw service in the Meuse-Argonne Offensive and Defensive Sector Arnould "2," and retained command of Company H, 372nd R. I. J. S., until its demobilization in Ohio in 1919. Subsequently he served in the 40th Division, United States Infantry, and as Executive Officer, Army Recruiting Office, Army Recruiting Station, Western Pennsylvania, until October, 1920, when he returned to Oakland, California. Soon after his return to Oakland, Colonel Allen organized Companies C, 159th Infantry; Service Company; and Regimental Headquarters Company, 159th Infantry; and assisted in organizing other units. He was promoted to Major June 1, 1923; to Lieutenant-Colonel June 15, 1926; and Colonel August 31, 1929. Colonel Allen remained in command of the 59th Infantry Regiment until September 20, 1937, when he was transferred to the command of the 160th Infantry Regiment.

Colonel John U. Calkins, Jr., was next to command the 159th Infantry Regiment. His record reveals that he graduated from the Officers' Training Camp in 1917 and was an officer of the 91st Division during the World War. In 1921, Colonel Calkins accepted a commission as Captain in Company D, First Separate Battalion. In 1922 he was commissioned Major and 1925 was Lieutenant Colonel, 159th Infantry Regiment. In 1926, he was transferred to Chief of Staff, 40th Division, where he served until transferred to the command of the 159th Infantry on November 1, 1937. Soon after the induction of the 159th Infantry on March 3, 1941, Colonel Calkins was ordered to Service School and upon his return was assigned to command the 160th Infantry.

Colonel Ray W. Hays, the present Commanding Officer, took command of the Regiment on July 1, 1941. He formerly was the Commanding Officer of the 184th Infantry. Colonel Hays has a long record of military service, which began in 1916 when he enlisted in Company C, Second California Infantry, and went to the Mexican Border with the organization. He was honorably discharged in 1917, but reenlisted in May in the First Separate Squadron, California Cavalry, a machine gun outfit. He was sent to the Second Officers' Training Camp at the Presidio of San Francisco and was commissioned a First Lieutenant in November, 1917. Receiving assignment to the 362nd Infantry (91st Division) he went overseas and fought throughout World War I with that organization, being promoted to Captain in 1918.

After the Armistice he was transferred to the Fourth Division and served with the Army of Occupation until June, 1919. Returning home he was discharged in July, 1919, and accepted a commission as Captain in the Officers' Reserve Corp until June, 1922, when he was commissioned a Captain in the California National Guard and was assigned to the 159th Infantry as Plans and Training Officer. In 1923 he was promoted to Major and assisted in organizing the 184th Infantry. In 1925 he was made Lieutenant-Colonel and became the Executive Officer of the 184th. In June, 1929, he was promoted to Colonel and took command of the 185th Infantry which assignment he held until he was transferred to the command of the 159th Infantry.

In civil life Colonel Hays was a Senator in the California Legislature, a public office he held since 1929. He also has practiced law since 1915 in the city of Fresno. Thus, today, Colonel Hays finds himself back with the organization with which he began his National Guard commissioned service.

It has always been important that a soldier be an expert in the handling of whatever fire arm his particular branch of the service is equipped. As an Infantry Regiment the 159th was usually ranked among the best. As usual, some units excelled others. For several years Company A was the outstanding unit at rifle target practice. Three successive years, 1925, 1926, and 1927, Company A, 159th Infantry Regiment, won the much coveted United States War Department Trophy awarded each year to the company rating highest in rifle marksmanship. At the same time Company A became permanent owner of the beautiful trophy offered by the San Leandro Chamber of Commerce for the best rifle practice in the East Bay region. However, in 1931, Company A, 159th, again won the trophy, and again lost it in 1932, since which time the trophy has successfully eluded Company A.

Time and space does not permit a detailed description of the activities of each unit of the Regiment. Just as Company A excelled in marksmanship for a while, so other units excelled in other performances. Taken as a whole, year after year, the 159th Infantry Regiment equaled any other Regiment of the National Guard in general efficiency. In fact, any Regiment must in these times maintain a fairly high standard in order to remain in existence. The standard is fixed by the Militia Bureau of the War Department, and since all equipment and supplies are furnished by the War Department, the only reason for any unit to fail would be the lack of the right type of men backed by the community in which they live. The increased universal high standing of the National Guard has created great respect for the organization in practically every region, thereby eliminating any excuse for lack of sentiment. The favorable attitude is no doubt due to the splendid work performed by the National Guard in times of disaster or other emergency. The attitude of organized labor toward the National Guard has changed to such an extent that requests have occasionally been made by unions for the presence of the troops.

On July 25, 1934, Colonel R. E. Mittelstaedt, Commander of the 250th Coast Artillery, 159th and 184th Infantry Regiment, during an emergency issued a statement of which the following is a part:

"Strike duty, involving the maintenance of law and order and the quelling of riots, is the most disagreeable duty a soldier has to perform. We are glad that our mission has been successfully accomplished without the loss of life or serious injury to any person, I am very proud of the performance of duty and conduct of the men who were under my command.

"We have remained impartial in this industrial controversy and our neutral position has been respected by each faction. We greatly appreciate the cooperation we have received from both sides during the time we have endeavored to maintain law and order on the San Francisco Waterfront.

"In all my years of service I have never seen troops under such trying circumstances maintain such splendid morale and physical health. In any emergency requiring the use of troops, it would be an honor to command these men."

Attention is also called to the following paragraph from the California Legionnaire:

"To ex-service men, who know something of the difficulties of moving troops quickly, outfitting and feeding them, and attending to the thousand and one details that go with troop movements, the way the 159th Infantry and Heavy Artillery moved into position was an eye-opener. Before anyone had realized that orders were out, the troops were on the job; Headquarters was functioning, field telephones were in place, the kitchens were smoking, and the situation was well in hand."

And now to conclude the history of the 159th Infantry Regiment. The old Fifth Infantry Regiment and the Separate Companies that eventually became part of that Regiment sparkled with deeds of service in the years gone by. The members of the Fifth Infantry Regiment proved to be true soldiers during the railroad strike of 1894 and in the war with Spain in 1898. They also rendered usually fine service during the San Francisco Bay Area earthquake and fire in April, 1906. The Regiment was called again into Federal service for duty during the World War. It was then that the name of the historic Fifth Infantry Regiment was changed to the 159th Infantry Regiment. The new 159th has consistently upheld the splendid record of the old Fifth as related in this brief history. In 1936, the 159th Infantry Regiment rated third in the National Award for Efficiency among all the National Guard Infantry Regiments of the United States. Today the 159th is once again in Federal service. Its strength has been greatly increased with men from all parts of the nation.

Every officer and man of the Regiment is now earnestly preparing for the defense of his country. Thus the history of the 159th Infantry marches on with its present members forging its destiny.
